REGARDING A WELL-KNOWN KENTUCKIAN.

The following news item from the Seattle (Wash.) Times, wired from San Francisco, has been read with interest throughout Central Kentucky. It concerns the lamented W. S. Hume, of Richmond, who was lost in the wreck of the ill-fated Valencia, and will be heard with surprise by his many friends over the State:

"Miss Dell Carlos was a bride-to-be until the Valencia went to her doom. Now the young woman mourns as dead the one she was to have wed, for he was a passenger on the vessel—a passenger who left the side of his affianced with the fear that he would never return.

"W. S. Hume, of Kentucky, and Miss Dell Carlos were engaged to be married. It was with a heavy heart and a foreboding of impending disaster that the young man left this city for an ocean voyage to the North coast. The young woman on the contrary was happy, with no thought of a tragic ending of her happiness. Seven months ago Mr. Hume came to this city from the Blue Grass State. At the Monarch Hotel in this city he met Miss Carlos, and the two pledged their troth.

"Business called Hume North, but he delayed his departure. At last he made up his mind to go, and he deceived him into taking passage on the ill-fated Valencia. But even on the eve of his departure the young man was impressed with a feeling of impending danger. Worried by a presentiment of death, he called on his affianced and told her of his feeling of dread. She laughed at his fears, and he embarked on board the vessel.

"He did not want to go," Miss Carlos said. "He felt that something was going to happen and he could not be convinced to the contrary. Mr. Hume was very superstitious. Several weeks ago he called on a fortune teller and she informed him that he was going on an ocean voyage and that it would be a very prosperous trip.

"On the day before the Valencia sailed he came to me and said that he had a presentiment that something was going to happen. But he recalled the prediction of the fortune teller and laughed at his own fears. However, he seemed possessed of that fear, and on the morning of sailing he came to me again. He once more related his fears and said that he might never return to me. Then he was gone."

JUST LIKE A WOMAN.

The Midway Clipper says: "A Scott county woman whose husband had just been put into the hearse is said to have told the procession to drive on as she would have to stay at home and churn because the cream had been sour for two days. It seems likely that she will recover from her awful grief and mental anguish."

ORIGIN OF "SO LONG."

You have perhaps wondered how the expression "so long" came to be so generally used by the American people," said a Columbia College lecturer the other day. "It is usually used in closing a conversation and is simple a form of 'good-bye.' The Norwegians brought it to this country. In that land of the Midnight Sun 'saa laenge' is the common form of farewell. It means the same as the 'auf wiedersehen' of the German or the 'au revoir' of the French. Among the early settlers of America were many Norwegians, and the phrase was picked up from them. They pronounce it with the g softened and accompany it by a wave of the hand.
